Lumora

Edition 4 · March 2026

BRAND GUIDELINES

A practical guide for everyone who writes, designs or approves Lumora content.

1. Who we are

Lumora makes considered skincare for people who read the label. We are warm, precise, unhurried and grounded. Our copy should sound like a knowledgeable friend, not a salesperson.

The brand was founded in 2019. We publish across Instagram, email, landing pages and retail print.

2. Voice and tone

Lumora speaks with quiet confidence. Avoid hype, urgency tactics and stacked exclamation marks.

Write in plain language. Prefer the everyday word over the clinical one.

Lead with measured radiance: visible improvement over time, never instant transformation.

3. Naming

Always write the full product name "Lumora Glow Serum" on first mention. Never shorten it to "Glow Serum".

The brand name is always capitalised as Lumora.

Headlines use sentence case. Avoid all-caps words longer than three letters outside the logotype.

4. Prohibited language

The words miracle, magic, cure and guaranteed are prohibited in all Lumora communication.

Avoid anti-aging in favour of age-defying appearance.

Lumora products are cosmetics. Never describe them as treatments, cures or medical interventions.

5. Claims

Every performance claim must match an approved claim in the Claim Ledger. Do not invent numbers, timeframes or comparative claims.

A claim may only be used until its expiry date. Expired claims must be removed, not reworded.

Any new claim needs a signed study report and regulatory sign-off before it enters the ledger.

6. Colour

Use only the Lumora palette: Bone #F4EFE6, Ink #1F1D1A, Clay #B4643C, Sage #7C8B72 and Sand #D9C9AF. Off-palette accent colours are not permitted.

Keep clear space around the logotype equal to the height of the L mark. Do not recolour, outline or rotate the logotype.

7. Accessibility

Body and caption text must meet WCAG 2.1 AA contrast of at least 4.5:1 against its background.

Every published image needs descriptive alt text written for a person who cannot see it.

Avoid text baked into images without a text alternative.

8. Channels

Email subject lines stay under 60 characters and avoid all caps.

Instagram captions may be up to 2,200 characters; keep the first line under 125.

Landing pages follow the same voice rules as email.

9. Approval

Every piece of published content passes through BrandSentinel. A reviewer resolves findings, an approver signs off, and a review receipt is retained with the version hash. Nothing is auto-published.